

Safeguarding your privacy and ensuring compliance with the provisions included in the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is very important to us. This includes the careful handling of your (personal) data.

This is the information we receive from you:

1. Name and address
2. Contact information

We need this information to prepare a quotation, to contact you and to check whether your payments have been received by us. We will have your data in our possession until both parties have fulfilled all obligations. If it does not lead to an agreement, we will keep your data in our possession until the date on which our offer to you expires.

After execution of the assignment, we will only keep your data in our possession with your consent if there is an identifiable purpose for this. You agree to this in any case when we enter into an agreement for several years.

We will only share your data with third parties if you have given explicit written permission for this.

Our website does use cookies.

You have the option to request and change your data from us and you can request that we remove your data from our database. Your request will be processed as soon as possible. You can contact:
